

Mission Statement

The mission of the Utah Meat and Poultry Inspection program is to protect public health by assuring that processors are producing safe, wholesome, and properly labeled meat and poultry products.

Vision Statement

The Utah Meat and Poultry Inspection Program strives to be a superior meat and poultry inspection program by:

- making public health our first priority,
- having a highly trained inspection force,
- developing and maintaining partnerships with processors and other agencies to ensure that the meat and poultry products produced in Utah are the safest found anywhere.

Values Statements

- A safe, wholesome and sustainable food supply.
- People are our most valuable asset.
- Education of all employees, including training and development, is vital to the Program. It is not a destination, but a continuing journey.
- The team concept is important to attaining Program goals and assuring a sense of individual and organizational accomplishments.
- Leaders who coach, motivate, and support a work environment where employees can develop and achieve their potential.
- Managers and supervisors must be open to new ideas and be able to manage change in a dynamic work place as it reflects a changing external world.
- Employees who maintain high professional and ethical standards and take personal responsibility for their actions.
